Dear Friend,

We are thrilled to invite you to join us for a fun and impactful day on the course at the Ken's Krew Golf Classic, happening on Monday, April 7, 2025, at the beautiful Country Club of the South, outside of Atlanta, GA. This year, we are especially honored to welcome Frank Blake, former Home Depot CEO and former United States Deputy Secretary of Energy, as our Honorary Host.

Funds raised from this event will make a crucial difference by supporting vocational training and job placement services for adults with neurodevelopmental disabilities. Today, unemployment remains alarmingly high within this community, with nearly 79% of individuals excluded from the workforce. Employment not only provides financial stability but also offers our Krew Members a sense of purpose and fulfillment—key components of a rewarding life.

Ken's Krew is proud of our growing success, having placed 900 Krew Members in employment across 9 states and 205 retail locations—with 540 still in active employment. We're committed not only to finding employment but to providing ongoing training and development, ensuring our Krew Members and their employers thrive.

We invite you to take part in this mission by sponsoring, donating, or participating in our Golf Classic. Your involvement will be immensely valued and will help create pathways for adults with neurodevelopmental disabilities toward independence and fulfillment. To learn more and pledge your support, visit www.KensKrew.org/ATLgolf.

Together, let's make a meaningful difference in the lives of those striving for independence and opportunity.

Warm regards,
